

Lyndales
SOLICITORS

At certain moments in your life you may need a lawyer to help sort out a problem. Whether you're a claimant, defendant, employer, employee, landlord, tenant, consultant, director, partner, shareholder, husband, wife or co-habitee, we have experienced lawyers to deal with the arguments and disputes that can arise in personal and business life.

We seek to protect your interests in a cost-effective and pragmatic way. Thinking beyond just the law, we take into account people's lives and the issues they face. We always look to resolve issues with either a negotiated settlement or a decision of the Court that is fair.

Ashley heads our litigation department. To be a good litigator you need intellect, experience, understanding and communication skills. Ashley has all of these, together with the human touch and a sprinkling of humour. His 30 years' experience allows him to pinpoint a client's issues and translate them into dynamic legal effect. Believing that every client should feel understood and supported, his enthusiasm and interest in people means he treats every case as if it was his first.

Ashley has a broad knowledge of all areas of litigation, principally company/partnership, employment and family law. He is a member of the Solicitors Family Law Association and carries out much of his own advocacy in the County, High Courts and Tribunals. His client base ranges from entrepreneurs and high profile individuals to entertainers, partners in business, company directors and shareholders.

Ashley's competitive and social nature is reflected in his personal interests. A keen sportsman, musician, chef and family man, he has travelled the world and been involved in numerous charity events. When not in the office, you'll probably find him in the gym or on the golf course.
