

Lyndales
SOLICITORS

Lyndales can advise on certain aspects of tax (including capital gains tax and inheritance tax), on setting up trusts and on a wide range of charity related issues. We are used to working with accountants and independent financial advisers to achieve the outcomes that they advise for both your personal and business tax affairs and to provide the necessary documentation to give effect to that advice.

Lyndales also has a genuine passion and interest in the voluntary sector. Charities have many diverse needs, for example, on governance and relationships with the Charity Commission, contracts, brand, partnerships, fund raising, intellectual property, events, gaming and lotteries. We can help with many areas of the law that trustees are increasingly required to be responsible for and are always dedicated to the best possible service at a sensible cost.
